Overview

Will's unparalleled work ethic and deep knowledge of the real estate industry are why people trust him with their most complex real estate issues. He represents clients in all types of litigation with an emphasis on the real estate industry.

As a member of the firm's Business Litigation Service Group, Will assists clients with contract negotiations and disputes, employment law issues, and ownership disputes. He enjoys working with clients who are building a business, or who are working in a novel industry. He represents mid-size business owners and real estate professionals, as well as antique and art dealers.

Prior to entering private practice, Will served as counsel and assistant vice president for the country's largest title insurance company where he managed litigation involving title, escrow and related real estate issues.

Outside the office Will plays in racquetball leagues and is an active member of the Ohio Valley Military Society. He is also fluent in German.
